

Homogeneous fluorescence assay method for kinases, phosphatases and phosphodiesterases

A b s t r a c t

The present invention relates to a homogeneous assay method of quantitative measurement of kinase, phosphatase and phosphodiesterase (PDE) reactions. The method may be used both in a direct and in a competitive assay format.